Col. Graham has struck it rich in the shaft nearest Twin Mountain. The metal seems to be more generally distributed in the concrete strata in this shaft than in any heretofore strate in this shart than in any heretofore opened, and it also seems to be richer than any of the others. The ore strata was struck in this shaft at forty-five feet below the surface, and appearances seem to indicate that it extends under the mountain. The workmen are still eable down one if

Messrs John Taylor and G. A. Graham have been devoting a good deal of time to prospecting in the hills directly west of Graham, and last week they discovered an old shaft, supposed to have been worked many years and by the Mexicans. The shaft is walled with rock and from all outside appearances it is judged to be at least a century old. So it seems that people of a forgotten age were working here for precious metals. The recent discovery here, taken in connection with this old shaft and the discoveries of early settlers here, seem to indicate to a certainty that there exists under and in the immediate neighborhood of Graham mines of immense wealth. We feel confident now that the gold and silver of Graham will yet amount to a nomanza to our people. The assayers say it is here, and the shafts aiready sunk proves that the ore exists in immense quantities. There is no further room for skepticism on the subject.

With these prospects added to our immense coal fields, and our agricultural facilities, there is no reason why Young county should not soon become the banner county of the Northwest and Graham the leading city of this district. Col. Graham has commenced two more shafts on the north side of East Twin mountain.

Your correspondent has carefully examined the so-called walls, inscription, etc., and has found nothing to induce him to believe that the work was done longer than

and has found nothing to induce him to be lieve that the work was done longer than ten or twelve years ago, and that by men ten or twelve years ago, and that by men who camped on the ground while at work about town. If we have valuable minerals here, as I firmly believe, we have no need of mystery or the medicine man. But we cannot too often remember that all is not gold that gilters. So far these are the facts: In Joe Norris' well, and in three separate shafts sunk by E. S. Graham, silver ore has been found in the conglomerate rock. The ore is in the shape of crystals of sulphuret of lead and silver, and is found. sulphuret of lead and silver, and is found frosting the flinty pebbles in the conglom-erate rock. In Norris' well ore was struck at about twenty-five feet, at Graham's shaft on the side of Twin mountain at about forty-six feet, and in the other two intervening at about thirty-five feet. These different diggings are say six hundred yards in ex-diggings are say six hundred yards in extreme from east to west.

Much fool's gold or fron pyrites has also been found in all of these openings. Whether the pyrites contain anything of value only assays will tell. Mr. Graham is now sinking two other shafts on the north side of east. Twin mountain. His first three sanfts stoped at good ore. When the last two are finished he proposes to ship a ton from each shaft, covering a distance of half a mile from east to west, and if the smelting is satisfactory, works will be constructed for smelting ore on the ground. So far we for smelting ore on the ground. So far we have no evidence of fissure veins. What we have is a mineral deposit in a very hard conglomerate in the coal measures. Probably the average thickness of this conglor erate underlying the town is fifteen feet-perhaps twenty-but I do not know that it is all mineral bearing. It is generally overaid by sandstone and underlaid by clay.

A TOTAL WRECK.

LARGE SCOW-SCHOONER PAT CHRISTIAN ASHORE.

Other Damages Done During the Recent Storm on the Gulf-The Narrow Escape of the Schooner Moore.

Correspondence of the Gazette. Velasco, Brazoria County, Tex., Oct. 6.—The reported wreck of the schooner Fair Play, Cap. Soi Larsen, from Quintana to Orange, was a mistake. She weathered out the storm off Galveston without material damage and news has been received here of her safe arrival in port. The large scow-schooner, Pat Christian, that was driven ashore while trying to enter Galveston harbor during the same gale, will prove a total wreck, and I was informed yesterday evening that the work of dismantling her had already begun. The schooner Moore, bound from Rockport to Sabine Pass and Lake Charles, sprung aleah at sea night before last, and though the crew worked vigorously at the pumps, the water gained in her hold so much that she attempted to enter the Brazos, though none to Orange, was a mistake. She weathered attempted to enter the Brazos, though none of her officers were acquainted with the ocality, consequently she missed her course in the darkness and ran against the east etty, sustaining considerable injury. Her signals of distress brought Capt. Toland and his life-saving crew from the Surf-Side station, across the river from Quintana, to her rescue and she was brought here for repairs. Among her passengers were four-teen laborers who, finding they could obtain several months' employment at the Velasco brick-yards at first-class wages, concluded to remain.

The steamer Emily P., running from this place to Galveston, will have electric lights in a day or two, similar to those on the steamer Alice Blair, that makes daily trips between Velasco and Columbia. The blockade in lumber is partially re-lieved by yesterday's arrival of the three-master Mary Isabel, with 120,000 feet, and several smaller vessels with full cargoes from East Tevas and Louisiana mills, but the demand, far exceeds the supply, and uness the facilities for transportation are speedily increased 1 cannot see how some contractors are going to get houses built before the time specified.

The Whitewater, Christie, Blair, and Emily P. all brought in pretty fair lists of passengers last night, and, as has nearly always been the case since the first of last month, every hotel and boarding house is crowded full, and a good percentage of the arrivals have to content themselves with ots instead of beds.

The pleasant weather makes fishing excellent, and those who have time to indulge in it are having rare sport. Redfish weigh-ing from ten to thirty pounds can be caught from the seaward sides of the letties and all along the beach front, nearly as fast as a am aging the beach front, nearly as fast as a man can throw in a line, and trout are biting splendidly in the river. I saw one disciple of Isaac Walton with seventy-odd of the latter pilled around him yesterday that he had captured during the space of three hours, and I do not think there was one in the lot that would have weighed less than two pounds. I know he could not be-gin to carry them home, but had to hire a negro to help him.
